

Electronic publication of a doctoral thesis

The electronic publishing of a doctoral thesis is an attractive and quite simple way of submitting your work for publication. The advantages are

- low costs in comparison to a publication in print
- speedy processing and granting of doctoral titles
- quick and worldwide access

The steps you need to take are as follows:

1. Upload of your thesis

You have to fill out an electronic form and upload your document.

To start this, go to the page

<https://ediss.sub.uni-hamburg.de> and login with your "Rechenzentrumskenung" (<https://bv.uni-hamburg.de>) or chose "Login für Externe" and register yourself ("Neu hier?") with your e-mail-address (we will send you further information by e-mail)

You will then be guided through a four-step process.

- The form that follows as step one requires some data about your thesis.
- In step two you can check the data and go back to step one if corrections are needed.
- Step three requires the actual upload of your in PDF-format.
- In step four you receive a confirmation for the successful upload and you need to click the button. on the end of the page to get to a so-called "Veroeffentlichungsvereinbarung" or "Publication agreement". Please print out this document and sign it

Signing the printed form, you agree to the following terms:

- electronic publishing of your thesis on our server
- allowing the library to send both your document and its metadata to the German national library "Deutsche Nationalbibliothek" (DNB) for preservation
- allowing the library to convert your document to other formats than PDF if needed for appropriate long-term preservation in the future

Your signature on this form will also assure us that the uploaded document is identical with the one that was approved by your board of examiners and that it has not been altered since its acceptance.

2. Formalities

The form and two print copies for circulation purposes need to be handed in before we can make your work accessible online. If you want to send your documents, please address them to:

Staats- und Universitätsbibliothek Hamburg
Hochschulschriftenbearbeitung
Von-Melle-Park 3
20146 Hamburg
Germany

We process your data and inform you about the internet address of your work on our server. We also send a confirmation to the academic office for your faculty's doctoral process, which is a necessary formality for the awarding of the doctoral degree.

Feel free to contact the "Hochschulschriftenbearbeitung" with any questions or problems that might occur.
